

TWINS

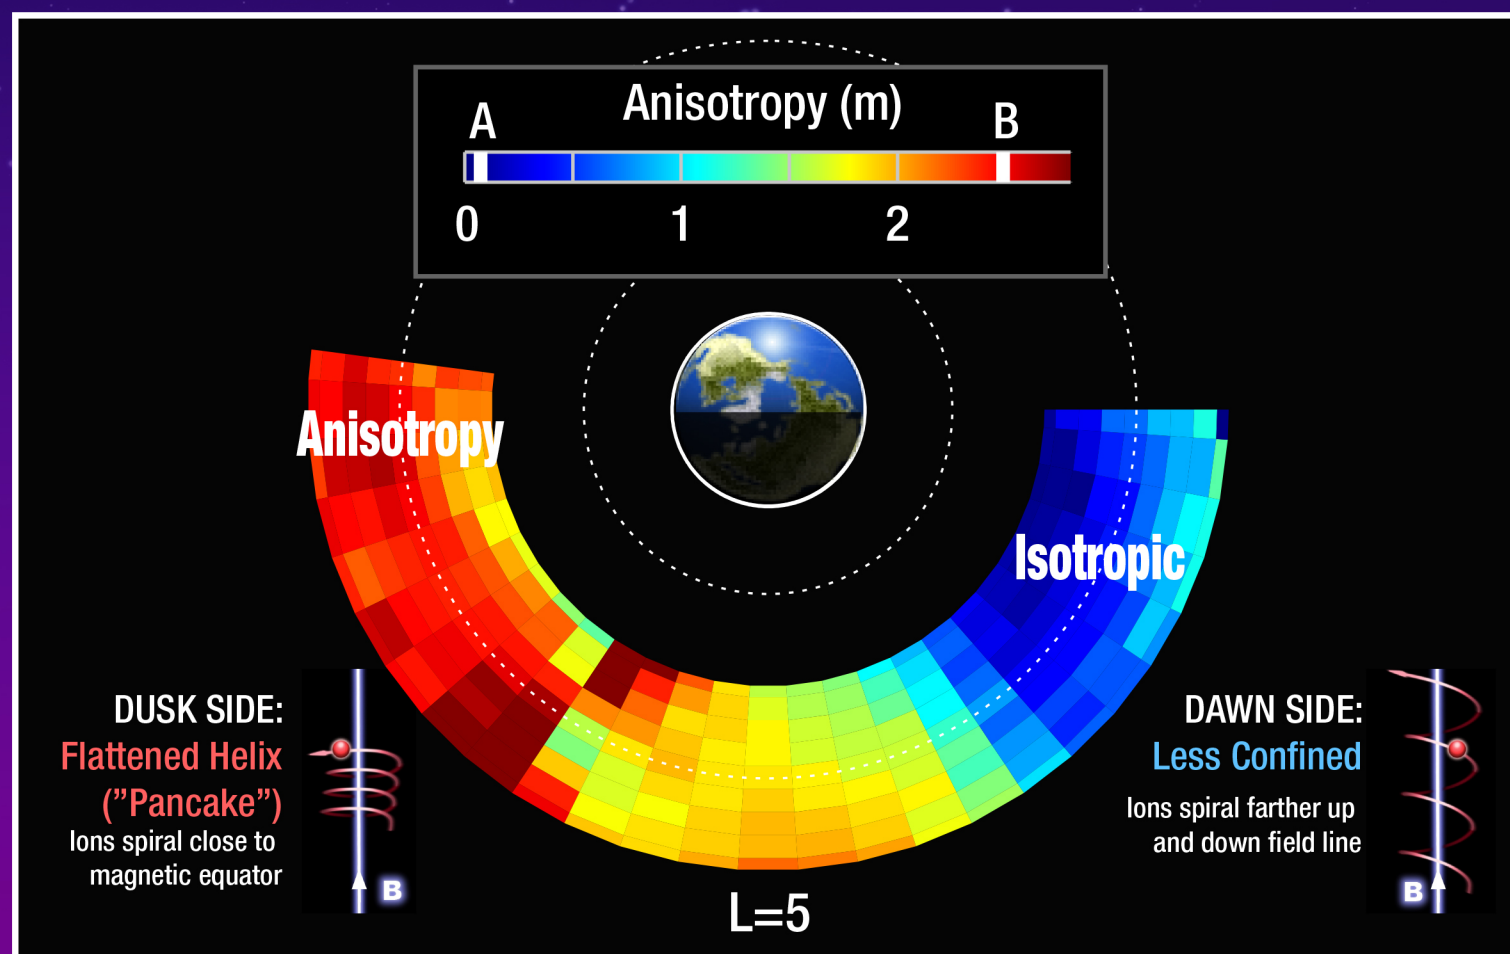

The First Stereo Magnetospheric Imager

J. Goldstein

Stereo images from the first CME-driven storm of solar cycle 24 – April 6, 2010

Obtaining images from two vantage points lets TWINS observe three dimensional structure, to determine ion anisotropy, or how close to the magnetic equator ions are trapped – April 6, 2010